Chairman's Comments

To update you on progress at Federation level, I attended the South West Federation AGM at the end of November where most of the proposals went the way we wanted. The only one which did not go the way we preferred was Proposal B concerning the Parkstone League. The finally worded change which was passed now reads "However, the Committee may vary the number of teams promoted or relegated but the winning team may not decline promotion."

If you want more information or to see a more detailed report of this meeting, you will find it on the SWF website under "News".

You may be interest to know that last season, 609 different players from 26 clubs fielding 113 teams played in South West league matches. Entries for 2014 suggest these numbers will increase. This is a quite remarkable level of participation and we should acknowledge the enormous amount of work that John Grimshaw, the League Secretary, puts into arranging all this competition for us.

I was presented with this plaque on behalf of our Parkstone League Team who won Division 2 last season and who will now be promoted to Division 1.

Following the SWF AGM, the meeting hosted by the CA top brass explained the current suggestions and asked for views. This led to a healthy and sometimes excited debate. Over the next twelve months, you will be made aware how this consultation period progresses but for now all I will say is that the CA are emphatic that this year is for consultation only. They will then use the feedback gained to develop a set of proposals which may or may not reflect some or all of the current suggestions. They are clear that no changes can be imposed on federations by the CA and that any change will follow voting from each club. The rationale behind the current debate is that the status quo is unsustainable. I represented your views at that meeting and you have already seen the letter I sent to the CA chairman. At January's SWF committee meeting, we will be discussing how the federation will respond.

The debate has only just begun.

Robert

On-Line Booking

Richard Way has been working extensively on getting the on-line lawn booking system ready. We are currently finalising details with the hotel and arranging fixtures with our opponents. When all this is entered onto the system, we will be ready to launch it (hopefully in February) and at that time we will send you an advice sheet explaining how it works.

We will run it as a trial throughout 2014 but if anyone encounters any problems, just contact Richard.

Photo Competition

Entries are now coming in but remember the final date for entries is January 31st so if you haven't submitted yours yet, you only have a few weeks left.

And now, some words of wisdom from our esteemed coach, handicapper, foreign secretary, and club competition general manager, Don.

Your High Bisque Partner

A fair number of Bears, I am delighted to say, have improved to the extent that they can now be considered experienced players. Because of this, they will now often find themselves partnered in handicap doubles with high bisque partners (hbps)

As an experienced player, you have the responsibility to get the best from your doubles partner when he or she has less ability than you do. Over my croquet career I can say, without bragging, that I have had considerable success with hbps, winning or runner-up in quite a number of events. Here are a few tips that I have discovered over the years.

1. Just because you find a particular shot easy, do not expect the same from your hbp. A 5 yard roquet may be trivial to you but it can be terrifying to your hbp.
2. If such a shot must be taken, guide your hbp through it (stalking, eye on the ball, smooth swing etc). Such guidance has to be based on your knowledge of the hbp's skills. Don't forget to indicate how hard the shot should be played. Remember that you can place balls and indicate directions for your partner
3. If such a shot is then missed DO NOT sigh and walk away. If you can see what went wrong, give helpful advice when off the lawn.
4. Be encouraging but not OTT. Too much "Oh great shot" when it wasn't will diminish the praise.
5. NEVER say "what did you do that for". If the hbp makes a silly shot, you should be looking out for it, so it's YOUR fault. OK, occasionally the hbp does something completely wild – just let it go and explain what you really wanted.
6. Be patient. I know this is difficult after the third set up and the third clang but do your best.
7. Know, or quickly find out, how well your hbp can rush. This will determine how near to the hbp's hoop, you lay a rush. Very hbps will normally be poor at rushing so you need to set up dolly rushes near their hoop. However, see 8.
8. If your hbp's hoop is also your opponent's and they have bisques of are close by, take both balls to a corner nearby and leave a VERY dolly rush to the hoop. That way if the oppo uses a bisque or hits in, only one ball can normally be brought into the lawn.
9. Receiving bisques. You must use your experience here. Likely reasons to take a bisque are; your hbp has stuck in oppo's hoop; has a good chance of at least two hoops; can finish the game. Likely reasons not to are; tricky hoops or roquets. Remember that taking a bisque yourself is sometimes tactically correct.
10. Giving bisques. The pressure is on you! Sometimes, however, you just have to take a chance. If your oppo are also a high/low pairing judge what each can do.
11. Listen to your hbp. He or she might well have a good idea, if not, you can explain why.
